

Simon Lusk is a director of YPOL. Before establishing YPOL in 2007 he was a partner with Phillips Fox. Simon has advised domestic and overseas insurers for more than 25 years. In the mining and construction sectors, he has advised the firm's insurer clients on claims ranging from personal injury and property damage to major financial losses and complex indemnity disputes. Simon also advises liability insurers on excess-of-loss programs for class actions, including the 2011 Queensland floods class action. Simon's professional indemnity practice involves advising domestic and London-based insurers of architects, engineers, surveyors, valuers, accountants and lawyers. He is a Lawcover panel solicitor.
